Periodic General Inspection of Hydraulic Systems

Product information

The Labour Code requires employers to conduct periodic general inspection of hydraulic systems. In the event of failure to comply with these controls, the employer is exposed to risks of bodily injury and property damage, financial penalties, and judicial and criminal proceedings up to 5 years in prison and a 75,000 euros fine.

Proper maintenance of your hydraulic systems is vital to avoid unnecessary production shutdowns, costs and hazardous situations. This maintenance depends on the use and the environment in which the system is used.

At Traction Levage, we can repair and maintain your hydraulic equipment following rigorous procedures to ensure your employees have safe and reliable equipment.

Before the device is returned to service, it is always subjected to a dynamic test.
